CASTOR BEAN CROP

MAY FURNISH A SOLUTION OF THE VACANT LOT PROBLEM

As there has been considerable speculation on the part of farmers and gardeners in regard to the practicability of growing castor beans for commercial purposes, the few crops which are being grown are being watched with interest. One plantation which has attracted considerable notice between Lomita and Chestnut is credited to J. Witham. Prof. Harry Howe reports that he has planted castor beans between the rows of his date plantation in Coachella Valley. City Manager Watson is making investigation to determine if they can be grown profitably and easily on vacant lots which would otherwise not be utilized. A circular which he has received from the government relative to the plant and its culture says that "any fertile soil which produces good crops of corn or cotton is suitable for castor beans, but a very fertile soil favors the growth of the plant at the expense of seed production and early maturity; that the land is prepared in much the same manner as for cotton or corn. Planting should not take place until after danger of frost is over. Before the beans are planted they should be placed in warm water and allowed to stand 24 hours. This treatment softens the hard seed coat and insures quick and uniform germination. In the extreme south the beans are planted about one inch deep and further north from one to two inches. As a usual thing three seeds are planted to the hill and on light land the hills are placed 4 feet apart, on heavier land 6 to 8 feet apart. In planting for commercial purposes a distinction should be made between the ornamental and the oil-producing sorts. The seeds of the sorts last named are small to medium in size, oval in shape and of a gray ground color irregularly marked with brown. The most desirable beans run from 1500 to 2500 to the pound. The crop is cultivated similar to corn until plants are large enough to shade the ground. Cultivation should cease when the first bloom spike appears.

"It is claimed that a man giving his whole attention to the crop can manage from 5 to 10 acres during harvest and that two men together can handle ten to fifteen acres and attend to other necessary work in connection with drying and cleaning the beans. The yield will depend much upon cultural conditions and the care exercised in harvesting and threshing the seeds. Yields of 30 to 40 bushels per acre have been reported from Florida, South Carolina, Georgia, Texas and California. Until recently the farm price for castor beans has been not far from $1 per bushel, but the increased demand for castor oil due to war conditions, has caused the price of the beans to advance rapidly and it is probable high prices will prevail until the end of the war. Castor beans contain a very poisonous principle and in the handling of them care should be taken to keep them from children and most animals."

Castor oil is used for the lubrication of airplanes.

FATAL ACCIDENT

An accident which proved fatal to one of the parties involved occurred last night about 5:30 o'clock when Frank Leslie of 1469 Pioneer drive, going north on Central avenue on a motorcycle, collided with a Japanese who was going south on Central on a bicycle, whose name was Kotsu, a man about fifty-two years of age, whose residence is given as R. F. D. 1, Box 171, Burbank. When Kotsu attempted to turn west from Central onto First street, he was run into by Leslie. Kotsu suffered a fracture of the skull and other injuries and was taken to Thornycroft Hospital in the Pulliam Ambulance with Drs. Eckles and Boyer in attendance. He died there about eight o'clock. An inquest to inquire into particulars of the accident will be held the first of the week.

RED CROSS NOTES

Business in the workroom of the Glendale Red Cross Chapter is coming along very satisfatcorily. Ten ladies were busy there Friday and the allotment assigned the chapter is being made up about as fast as the materials are received from San Francisco.

Mrs. Bullard, Chairman of the Surgical Dressings Department, reports that about half a dozen surgical aprons are out which should be turned in.

Mrs. Shiffler of West Seventh street was hostess at the four o'clock tea.

HAVE HAD EXPERIENCE

JACK HALLOWAY AND W. A. S. DOUGLAS SOON TO BE CALLED TO SERVICE

Jack Halloway and W. A. S. Douglas, of the Diando Studio, who enlisted recently for service in the Tank Corps, expect to be summoned for entrainment the latter part of next week.

Mr. Douglas has seen service both in the British and the United States Army. He fought with the infantry in the Boer war and was raised from Corporal to Second Lieutenant for valor on the battle field. He was a Corporal in the Pennsylvania National Guard of the U. S. A.

Both of these young men made an effort to get into the United States Marines, but Mr. Douglas was barred by the fact that he had not received his second papers, so they agreed upon the Tank service, which was open to both. It is a branch which is rated very high and for which only men can qualify who have had the equivalent of two years in college.

The U. S. Merchant Marine needs men so badly that it is possible Mr. Halloway may be called there, as he has had experience. For three years he served under his father, who was one of the biggest ship owners on the Atlantic coast and who was frequently called upon to take on their trial trips battleships turned out by the Cramp Shipyards of Philadelphia. Jack says he wants to go where his services will be most valuable to the Government, and if he can be of more use as an officer in the Merchant Marines, he is ready to go there. In that case he will take training for a few weeks to refresh his mind on navigation and on taking the examination will be appointed Second Deck Officer. First Deck Officer will be as high as he can go for the first six months. Then he will be allowed to take the examination for Captain. Salaries of officers in the Merchant Marine are higher than in the army. Before being admitted to the school referred to a man must have had two years of deck experience. For this reason it is hard to get men of the class and quality required.

Mr. Halloway's wife, who is Carol Halloway, the Vitagraph serial star, will remain here during his absence. Mr. Douglas' wife and child are in New York.

Y. P. B. CONVENTION

Mrs. G. H. Rowe of 516 Orange street, director of the Y. P. B. of the W. C. T. U. in Glendale, returned from the two-day convention held Thursday and Friday at the University Methodist Church in Los Angeles, and reports splendid meetings and the capture of the banner for attendance by the Glendale Branch. Besides the many members of the Branch who attended, quite a delegation was present from the Glendale W. C. T. U., and its president, Mrs. Ruby Smart, made an excellent address Friday afternoon. Miss Emma Esterly of Glendale was made treasurer. The program Friday night was a beautiful pageant entitled "U. S.—S. O. S." A service flag bearing thirty stars representing members of the Y. P. B. of Southern California, one star a gold one, was dedicated. Judge Robert L. Hubbard, one of the Four-Minute Men, gave a patriotic address and Miss Marie Brehm made a fine talk. Miss Evangeline Quackenbush of the Glendale Y. P. B. contributed violin solos both evenings. In many respects it was one of the best conventions which the organization has held, but the attendance was not up to normal owing to the fact that thirty of its members are in army service and a good many young women are away from home at work.

POST AND CORPS MEETING

N. P. Banks Post and Corps held an all-day meeting Friday which was somewhat unexpected as for several years it has been omitted in August because of the annual encampment at Huntington Beach. It proved, however, most enjoyable, both to veterans and members of the corps. In an effort to Hooverize, the ladies varied the customary menu considerably, and served a big corn bread at their mid-day dinner which was greatly enjoyed, also escalloped potatoes which discounted Delmonico's best, then there was a salad of sliced tomatoes and bell peppers, sandwiches and coffee. It was a great banquet and an excellent preparation for the program which followed which, though impromptu, was very good, and included readings, vocal solos and speeches.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair except cloudy or foggy near the coast tonight and tomorrow morning. Continued warm in the interior. Gentle westerly winds.

BRITISH NEAR BAPAUME

RESUME ATTACK BETWEEN THE SOMME AND THE ANCRE EARLY TODAY—PROGRESS IN ALBERT SECTOR

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, August 24.—Field Marshal Haig reported today that the British have resumed the attack between the Somme and the Ancre early today. At the same time fighting developed in the Givenchy sector. The official reports placed the number of prisoners taken by the British in the last three days at 14,000. The British made progress last night in the Albert sector while today's fighting "developed our advance," the war office stated.

Reports from the front this afternoon showed the British were within two and a half miles of Bapaume. The British third army advanced at some points more than four and a half miles. Authoritative sources this afternoon stated that the number of prisoners taken by the British since July 16 is now well over 100,000.

FRENCH RESUME THEIR DRIVE ON THE CITY, HOLDING ALL RAILWAYS AND HIGHWAYS IN THE REGION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, August 24.—The French resumed their drive on Noyon today, improving the positions which they won yesterday. The Germans are resisting desperately along the Divette river and north of Soissons. The French are drawing nearer the Soissons-Chaulnes highway and are threatening to outflank Chavigny.

GENERAL MARCH SAYS HIS STATEMENT TO NEWSPAPER MEN WAS RESULT OF COLD MILITARY CALCULATION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, August 24.—Chief of Staff General March told newspaper men today that his statement that 4,000,000 Americans afield next year could win the war in 1919, was not an idle boast but resulted from cold military computation. He said all military leaders agreed with him and returning officers from France were of the same opinion.

GERMANY THREATENS SPAIN

SEIZURE OF GERMAN VESSELS MIGHT RESULT IN RUPTURE OF GOOD RELATIONS, SPAIN IS TOLD

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, August 24.—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange-Telegraph reported today that Germany has informed Spain that her threatened seizure of German vessels to replace submarined Spanish ships "might result in a rupture of good relations." Germany however is willing to consider limiting her operations against Spanish shipping but will give no guarantee.

BRITISH GAIN ON WIDE FRONT

ADVANCE ON LINE BETWEEN THE ANCRE AND THE SOMME CAPTURING BRAY AND OVERVILLE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, August 24.—The British attack today gained heavily on a wide front between the Ancre and the Somme, capturing Bray and Overville. The French have cleared the south bank of the Oise and Ailette as far as Pont St. Mard and firmly stablished themselves north of the Ailette. They made progress opposite Coucy-le-Chateau and west of Noyon they advanced toward Cuy. Progress between the Matz river and Soissons was slower today.

A PARTISAN AFFAIR

PRIMARY ELECTION TO DECIDE WHOSE NAMES SHALL GO ON PARTY TICKETS

Editor News:

To the voter who understands the theory and practice of politics, when applied to the larger affairs of the state and nation (non-partisanship is only practicable in small districts), party and principle are synonymous terms.

As far as candidates for the state or national legislatures are concerned the primary election next Tuesday is a purely partisan affair. It is not for the election of any one to office; it is merely to decide whose names shall be put upon the various party tickets, as in the opinion of those voting, are best qualified to represent the party to which the voter belongs.

Take the case of our representative in Congress, Mr. Randall. He has his name on the nominating petitions of three political parties, aspiring to be the candidate and representative of all three. He never could have been elected as the representative of any single party, and can not be elected again as the candidate of any one party. There is no need to confuse the issue; the only question for Republican voters to decide next Tuesday as far as the office of congressman is concerned, is this: Is Mr. Randall a good Republican to represent the party in congress? If he is, then vote for him. No question as to his character, or qualifications or demerits otherwise, need be considered for a moment, as they are all aside from the question involved. Now the fact is that Mr. Randall is not a Republican at all; he does not pretend to be one except at election time and then not hard enough to divert any Democratic or Prohibition votes.

The voters who registered as Republicans just for the sake of helping put Mr. Randall's name on the Republican ticket and with no intention of voting for any other candidate, need to sit up nights to get acquainted with their consciences.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH PIPE ORGAN

The beautiful memorial pipe organ, the gift of Anthony Ambrosini in memory of his wife, Augusta Ambrosini, who died March 20, 1917, has been installed and will be used for the first time tomorrow at both morning and evening services. It is one of the most beautiful in appearance and high quality of tone ever produced by the firm of Vogelpohl of Minneapolis. The formal dedication of the organ will occur Sabbath morning, September 8th, at 11 o'clock. A special public recital will occur the following week to which the general public will be invited.

Mrs. A. M. Z. des Plantes has been secured as church organist. She is an artist of exceptional ability on the pipe organ, both as teacher and performer.

The general public is cordially invited to the services tomorrow as announced in the regular church column.

DEATH OF REV. FIELD

WELL-KNOWN MINISTER AND GLENDALE RESIDENT PASSED AWAY FRIDAY

Friday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock Rev. Frederic Alden Field, who has been in ill health for some time, passed away at his home at 239 South Kenwood street. Though his health has always been frail, more than thirty years of his life had been devoted to the ministry in the pulpits of the Congregational denomination, though at the time of his death he was a member of the Presbytery, which he joined after coming to Glendale because there was at that time no Congregational church here. He was a man of unusually sweet character, who made friends wherever he went, and for that reason exerted a great influence, particularly among young people.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Glendale Presbyterian church, which will be conducted by Rev. W. E. Edmonds, the pastor, and by Rev. J. M. Schaefle, pastor of the Pico Heights Congregational Church, an old friend of Mr. Field.

Frederic Alden Field was born in Lawrence, Mass., August 24th, 1852. He would have celebrated today his sixty-sixth birthday. His parents remained in Lawrence only a short time, moving from there to Rhode Island, from there to Minnesota and then to Oberlin, Ohio, where he received his grammar school education and where he was graduated from Oberlin College. In 1875, on account of ill health, he came with his father to Southern California. They purchased a ten-acre ranch at Vernon and his health so improved with outdoor work that he decided to carry out his desire to enter the ministry. He went to Oakland, where he entered a Theological Seminary since transferred to Berkeley and was graduatd in 1879. In 1880 he assumed his first pastorate at Westminster near Santa Ana and the same year was married to Miss Clara May McDonald of San Diego, who survives him. After leaving Westminster he organized a church at National City near San Diego. Returning to Los Angeles County, he organized the Vernon Congregational Church, later becoming pastor of the Olivet Congregational Church, Los Angeles. Since that pastorate he has served the West End Congregational Church, the Third Congregational and the Brooklyn Heights Congregational Churches of Los Angeles. He also built and organized a Congregational Church at Redondo. On account of failing health he resigned from the ministry and yielded to the persuasions of his friend, Rev. Coulter, President of the Coulter Dry Goods Company of Los Angeles, to enter his employ and serve in the capacity of host to greet patrons and to be the friend and adviser of the clerks of the store, assuring him that his employment there would not be allowed to interfere with his duties as a minister in officiating at weddings, funerals, etc. For eight years he was on the staff at Coulter's, where he was much beloved by patrons and employes, as was evidenced by the quantities of flowers, letters and visits he received during his last illness. He made a brave struggle to overcome his physical disabilities and last October visited an old friend on a cattle ranch in New Mexico in the vain hope of restoring his vigor. He also visited the mountains this summer in July, accompanied by his daughter, but this too was without avail. Since he returned, August 2d, he has been confined to his bed. Few men have accumulated as large a circle of friends as he did or will be more missed. His immediately family consists of his widow and his daughter, Miss Bessie Field, teacher of Spanish in Glendale Union High School.

HOUSEWARMING

The beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Denison, 1430 West Broadway, was the scene of a happy social affair Friday evening which served as a housewarming and also complimented Miss Jessie Allin of Pasadena, when Mrs. Denison, a recent bride, better known as Miss Mabel Cregier of Pasadena, entertained a company of Pasadena ladies with a luncheon.

The new home with its pretty new furnishings was decked out in the national colors for the occasion and covers were laid at the perfectly appointed table for Miss Allin, the guest of honor, Misses Bessie Chamberlain, Marie Rudy, Alice Emig, Lucy Good, Maribelle Pomeroy, Ruby Johnson, Elfie Jackson and Mesdames George Vincent, John Allin and J. W. Allin. Music and a good social time made the occasion a very happy one for all concerned.

UNOFFICIAL HONORS

Liberty Loan, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. campaigns, one big war drive after another, each with its heroic speechmakers and full dress parades, have made the Croix de Guerre as familiar as a Ford car. The small boy next door looks down on anyone who fails to differentiate between our own medal of honor and the Victoria Cross; he knows all about the D. S. C. and the D. S. M.. There are other decorations than these; unofficial democratic decorations to which we are not yet accustomed; decorations which do not figure in press dispatches, pictures of which never appear in the Sunday papers or draw chers at the movies; decorations of which the heroes themselves as yet know nothing. No gold, or silver, or bronze, these decorations, but words written on the backs of letters, envelopes, on scraps of white or brown paper picked up in a trench or dugout, written with pen or pencil; decorations which cannot be worn on parade, yet will be passed from generation to generation as jealously as a badge of honor.

There is no lining of battalions to witness this award, no kiss or formal handclasp for the winner—but these decorations are coming to the mothers of our boys; coming quietly, modestly—just a bit of unfamiliar handwriting tucked in somewhere in that letter from France.

"Dear Madam," so one reads, "it might please you to know that your son is one of my best and most dependable men," and signed "His Platoon commander." Another—and this an actual copy; him our work could not go on so well; he is always cheery and ready. Madam, I love your boy."

"May I tell you that your son is indispensable to me, that without

They come from where, from whom, the unofficial honors? Straight from the front lines, slipped in by some busy officer of your boys' command, an officer who in spite of a thousand other duties, finds time to act as censor, but is something more than censor in the ordinary meaning of the word; an officer who has watched your boy day after day and worked with him through danger—and worse than danger—drudgery.—Colliers.

Y. M. C. A. MEN AT THE FRONT

Using Y. M. C. A. huts close to the front line trenches in France as advanced dressing stations, Y. M. C. A. secretaries acting as stretcher bearers, others assisting the surgeons to bind wounds, still others carrying cheer to the fighting men in the trenches in the shape of steaming hot chocolate, the present counter offensive on the western front has demonstrated the bravery and earnestness of the Y. M. C. A. war work secretaries under shell fire.

There has been virtually no interruption of the Y. M. C. A. supply service because of the attack. As soon as the barrage lifts the trucks loaded with supplies start forward plowing through the danger zone with intrepid drivers avoiding crater holes and dodging shrapnel. The Red Triangle has followed close upon the advancing troops.

W. T. Renison of Stockton, Cal., writing from the front expresses the spirit of the "Y" men. He says: "This is the world of ideals over here, the world of sacred things fighting for its very life. Mere physical values will never again mean very much for me. You cannot see your boys go from your "Y" hut into the trenches and learn next day that they will never come back without feeling that you owe all and more than you can ever give to the torn and bleeding hearts back home. My sacrifice does not consist of anything I am doing or can do over here; it consists in the sorrow and pain duty demands I give to my family. The other day my Y. M. C. A. co-worker escaped being hit when a German plane dropped a bomb a few feet ahead of him. He brought a part of the shell into my hut."

WIRT C. SMITH

Attorney at Law

CANDIDATE FOR

Justice of the Peace
For Burbank Township

When ill, you need a physician. When you build a house, you need a carpenter.

Then why take your lawsuits to one not specially trained in the law?

The law requires that every Justice of the Peace in Los Angeles Township shall be an attorney, duly admitted to practice. Such townships as Pasadena, South Pasadena, Alhambra, Long Beach and others have found that it pays to have one trained in the law to settle their disputes.

All the judges in the Superior Court are attorneys. The Justice Court is just as important as the Superior Court.

If the decision of the Justice is not rendered according to law, in many cases you are left without a remedy, as frequently the amount involved would not justify the expense of an appeal to the Superior Court.

Wirt C. Smith is the only attorney on your ballot at the primary election to be held next Tuesday seeking the nomination for Justice of the Peace.

Mr. Smith is a graduate of De Pauw University at Greencastle, Indiana, and of the Cincinnati Law School, having read law in the office of Ex-President Benjamin Harrison. He has had fifteen years' active practice in all the courts, six years of which he was assistant prosecuting attorney for Marion County at Indianapolis, Indiana.

Mr. Smith has resided in Los Angeles County for twelve years, is a red-blooded American citizen, a man of family with one son in the service at Camp Lewis, and a taxpayer.

He favors a vigorous prosecution of the war and keeping the home fires burning while the boys are in France.

He has always stood for prohibition and the enforcement of the law. His honesty and ability are unquestioned and he is indorsed by many of the best citizens throughout the township.

Mr. Smith resides at 1428 Milford street and has offices in the Title Insurance Building at Los Angeles.

AMERICAN PARENT ARRAIGNED

The following is from an editorial in a recent issue of the Ladies' Home Journal:

The war is beginning to teach lessons. For instance:

The Navy wanted men, and 106,392 young men, all under thirty, ruddy-looking and strong-limbed, applied. And 70 out of every 100 were rejected as physically unfit! Then 3400 of our "best" boys applied at Annapolis, and 72 out of every 100 were rejected! Then the Army wanted men, and 1,300,000 men applied. And 66 out of every 100 were rejected as physically unfit for military service. Then the truth was suddenly driven in upon us that we have in this country about 5 million young men, between the ages of 21 and 31, who are physically unfit for military or naval service. Somewhat different from our preconceived notions that we were building up a very strong and efficient young manhood!

Now, what is the matter? Surely something is radically wrong when nearly three-fourths of our young men are physically unfit at an age when they should be at their prime in point of endurance.

Something is wrong, and the something is fortunately very easy to fix. Thirty out of these 66 or 72 men rejected had bad teeth, and inquiry showed that their teeth had been shamefuly neglected even in the case of scores of young men who came from homes of easy means. Twenty out of the rest were rejected because of bad eyes, and again inquiry revealed that inadequate or no attention had been paid to the eyes of these boys, although scores came from homes where money was ample for such skill to be afforded.

Who is to blame?

Plainly and simply, the American parent! The blame must be put on the parents, for certainly no boy under 21 can be expected to take himself in hand and voluntarily go to a dentist or an oculist. Of course something will be done, in many cases doubtless something already has been done, to effect a remedy or a check in hundreds of these cases now that the defects have been revealed. But are we going to take this crushing lesson home and apply it to the younger children in our homes? Never in the history of this country shall we need man-power as we shall need it in the near future! The lesson has been driven home to us of neglect of our children when the country called for its young men. And they were found wanting!

It is an arraignment of the American parent that each can now do much to overcome in the future. Every child's teeth and eyes should be consistently looked after.

Personals

Miss Laura Anderson of 1419 West Third street, who is employed in the Williams Drygoods store, has been spending two weeks at Camp Baldy and is expected home Monday.

Mrs. William S. Porter and her mother, Mrs. W. H. Akin, have just returned from a trip to the north. They have been absent about three weeks and say they are thankful to get back.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerri, of the Monte Vista apartments, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Kelly of Los Angeles and Miss Mills of 134 Jackson street, this city, are spending the week end at San Pedro.

Miss Phelps of Omaha is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Turck of 521 Glendale avenue. She companioned them on some of their foreign tours and they have many pleasant experiences to talk over.

Mr. Sarasson of 1013 West Fifth street is confined to his home as a result of an accident to his foot. However, he is employing the time in his flivver, which he recently purchased.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Buchem of 135 South Kenwood street are newcomers from East Hollywood who have been Glendale residents for about a week. They like it very much so far and expect to make their permanent home here.

Rev. R. W. Mottern, pastor of the Glendale Lutheran Church, and his family have returned from Laguna Beach, where they have been spending ten days very happily, they say. Mr. Mottern will occupy his pulpit Sunday.

Mr. Green, manager of the Western Union Telegraph office in Los Angeles, visited Glendale Friday to inspect the local office. He says that although the lines are now under Government control, no changes have been made to date in rates or service, but the salaries of employes have just been increased 10 per cent.

Mrs. J. S. Mullen has received a letter from Mrs. Page Edwards of Chicago, who will be remembered as Annette Hooper, formerly a resident of Tropico. She sends greetings to her old high school friends and tells that while acting as a hostess at a Navy dance recently she met Charles Shropshire and had such an interesting chat that she became quite homesick for Glendale.

Miss Zoula Robinson, daughter of Mrs. L. N. Hagood of 1454 Salem street, gave a swimming party Thursday afternoon at Brookside Park in honor of Dorothy Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. Price Brown, who are moving to Fresno. The party was conveyed to the park by Mrs. Hagood in her machine, and included besides the young hostess, Misses Helen Beach, Billie and Dottie Gregg, and Harriet Barnes.

Miss Augusta Wallis, who graduated from Glendale High School in February, has gone to Berkeley, where she will enter the University in October. While in Glendale she made her home with Mrs. Gillan at 1117 Lomita avenue. Owing to the war, the University opens two months later this year, but she writes that she is delighted with Berkeley, especially so as her brother Bob, who is in the Navy, is stationed at San Francisco and they can frequently be together.

George J. Phelps and wife, formerly of Lincoln, Nebraska, but now doing business in Calexico, have been visiting Mr. Phelps' half brother, Henry Johnston of 335 Everett street for the last week. They are wonderfully pleased with Glendale and the lovely drives in this vicinity. The beaches also had a strange fascination as the visitors have always lived inland. They will remain a week longer and then return to Calexico.

Samuel Parker has returned from a fortnight's visit to his nephew, the Rev. Leslie G. Parker, pastor of the First Christian Church, Monrovia. Almost daily drives with the family made acquaintance with the surroundings, now of great interest in the development of the government aviation school, the immensity of which can not be grasped without frequent visit and observation. This the Parkers enjoyed, making several trips to the school, which is near to and regarded as a suburb of ambitious Monrovia.

Mrs. G. Mills of 134 South Jackson street went to Los Angeles Thursday evening to witness the marriage of her friend Miss Vera Blackman of Santa Rosa to Ben Philips of Los Angeles. The marriage took place in the study of the pastor of the Jefferson street Christian Church, who officiated, the groom's father and Mrs. Mills being the only witnesses. Immediately following, the party adjourned to the home which has been made ready for the young people at Edendale. The bride has been the guest of Mrs. Mills on several occasions and has acquired quite a circle of acquaintances here.

Full Coverage

Do you want to be protected against death, accident, sickness, disability of every kind and with an income for old age, at the least possible cost?

Because I specialize on life and income insurance, don't get the idea that anybody can give you protection at a lower price or in a more complete form than I can.

Catchy ads sometimes give the impression that a man can secure all this coverage in one contract, at a cut rate. You always pay for what you get. If my experience and ten years' residence in Glendale have created any confidence in me, I would like to serve you. Call me up, stop me on the street, or see me at my office.

Comrade Burington of 1435 West Colorado street, a member of the N. P. Banks Post, has been confined to his home by illness for several weeks.

Mrs. J. L. Flint of 249 North Central avenue left Friday for Palo Alto to join Dr. Flint, who is now in service and taking special training there.

Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Hillman, of 305 Paloma avenue, will spend the period of Mr. Hillman's vacation next week at Forest Home in the San Bernardino mountains.

Mrs. M. H. Daniels and her daughters Marie and Edith, who have been spending the summer at the home of Victor W. Daniels, 1424 West Colorado street, are leaving Monday for Boston, Mass. They will stop at Chicago en route to visit friends there.

Rev. O. P. Rider, pastor of the Tropico Presbyterian Church, is taking a month's vacation which he purposes to spend in making short trips to places of interest not far from home which can be easily reached by auto. His son, Paul Rider, did not succeed in enlisting in the Navy as he tried to do, and is now hoping to be taken by the Medical Reserve. He is awaiting a call to service. Miss Ruth Rider will teach again at Manhattan, her school there opening the 15th of September.

Mrs. Harry Duffield was the guest yesterday of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones at her Hermosa Beach home. She found Mrs. Jones eager for news from her home town, as it has been more than a month since she left for her sojourn at the seaside. She is obviously deriving much benefit from the cool sea breezes, having taken on a rested look as well as some wanted avoirdupois. She reports that her plans for the coming club year are practically completed, so that it is clear that she has not been idle although somewhat removed from the center of activities. Mrs. W. E. Evans and little daughter are also at Hermosa Beach and it is probable that both families will remain at that resort for at least a month longer.

JOHN ROBERT WHITE, JR., A SUCCESS

Most of the voters today, women and men alike, wish to vote intelligently and wisely for men who have proven in private life to have those qualities that are equally necessary for success in public life. But it is almost discouraging to the conscientious voter to read over the sample ballot or even the political platform of the candidates. So little is shown of the personality of the men thus named, and the voter often wishes he knew what the business associates and neighbors really think of the candidates. For that reason this brief summary is written by one who has known John Robert White, Jr., for twelve years, in public and private life.

John Robert White, Jr., is first, last and always a gentleman, with high ideals and a deep sense of patriotism. It is because of these very characteristics that he is willing to become a candidate, at the urgent insistence of his friends and business associates, that such men are needed in public life.

He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and, unlike many men, did not give up his study when he graduated, but has continued a student of history and sociology. When he went into business in the California Furniture Company, of which he is now an officer, this same eagerness for knowledge made him decide to become an expert in some one line at least, and now he is recognized all over the United States as an expert in rugs, carpets and tapestries, which mean so much in artistic and intelligent house furnishing.

It is this same desire for knowledge that will make him know all sides of a question before voting.

He has been a public-spirited man, always. He served on numerous patriotic committees, the Liberty Bond Drive, the Council of Defense Associates and the Red Cross, as well as having served Glendale as Mayor. He knows how to meet the public and get their point of view.

But John Robert White, Jr., is the greatest success in his own home, where he is a chum with his four boys and a loving companion to his wife, and always a courteous host to the large number of friends who are proud to be included in this happy circle.

SWEET DAFFODIL

A Song
By F. Lee Chauvan

I bend to the breeze, sweet Daffodil,
I bend with thee;
Thy petals hold a secret dear,
Tell it to me.

In thee is my rose, sweet Daffodil,
My violet true;
Thou hast all their joys, sweet Daffodil,
And pure of hue.

Now to the breeze we merrily bend,
We bend alone;
I feel the sweet of thy petals' heart
Sweeten my own.

In thy breath's delight, sweet Daffodil,
My heart aglow,
I press thee gently in caress,
Thy secret know.

In thy smile's delight I see the life
From evil free;
In the joy thou giveth is revealed
Divinity.

Will thy spirit wed, sweet Daffodil,
Will wed with mine?
In love pledge with thee my life will be
A joy like thine.

ON PATROL DUTY

The following interesting letter was addressed by Corporal Houdyshel to his cousin, Miss Houdyshel, 211 South Maryland avenue, this city.

Somewhere in France,
July 20, 1918.

Dear Cousin:

I would like to tell you about my experiences in the trenches, but can not, as the censor would not let that go through the mail. But I will tell you something about our last big battle. I suppose though you will have read about it in the papers before you get this letter.

The Germans were going to make a big drive and end the war the last of July and the first of August. The night of the 14th of July we, with the French soldiers, went over the top and got some German prisoners. We got the information from them that the Germans were coming over after us at 12 o'clock.

At 11:30 we started our artillery and beat them to it. There were twenty-five German divisions and only four of ours, but we sure gave them just what they deserved and gave it to them right, too.

You spoke about aeroplanes in your last letter. I do see quite a few planes—all the way from one to two hundred a day. I guess that is quite a few more than you people at home see. There was a German plane shot down about a mile from where I am now, and I went to look at it.

I almost forgot to tell you that I am detached from my company now and am at Battalion Headquarters on scout and patrol work. That is the kind of work I like best. We go on patrols in No Man's Land and try to get information and prisoners. It surely is interesting work.

Well, I will have to close this time, as writing in the army is the hardest thing there is. In the first place, it is hard to get things to write with and then it is hard to say anything, asa all of our mail is so strictly censored. I have to report for duty now, but will write soon again.

I remain your true cousin,
CORP. EUGENE R. HOUDYSHEL,
Co. G. 168 Inf., A. E. F.
Rainbow Division.

When I come home tonight I want to find the fire in the room,
Dispelling with its glow the darkness and the gloom.
I want to find the TABLE SPREAD WITH LINEN CLEAN AND WHITE,
And you, my dear, with kiss to welcome me when I come home tonight.

Why do voters concentrate in giving preference to the individual seeking support at the polls? The same thought dominates every loyal American citizen. We want our judgment verified in our selection. Four years ago the voters thought Harry M. Miller qualified to serve them as Justice of the Peace for Burbank Township. That confidence has never been betrayed. He again seeks the office, standing upon his record as City Marshal of Glendale for six years and nine months and as your Justice of the Peace for Burbank Township for the last four years. His experience in this capacity has made him familiar with every existing condition.

Judge Miller is a native of Pennsylvania, 40 years of age, a property owner, and 100% American, with red blood in his veins. He has resided in Glendale for more than 12 years; he served his Country in the Spanish-American war for 3 years, and stands ready again to serve when called. He is for State and National Prohibition. We believe his record from a Juvenile and probationary standpoint should be a factor in this campaign. The erring boy or girl is not reformed by publicity. A judge does far greater execution off the bench in dealing with petty offenses as many families could testify, regarding advice and assistance rendered by Judge Miller.

Judge Miller is working hard to qualify in his ambition to be admitted to practice law; he will finish his studies in the Night School at the U. S. C. Let us encourage a worthy ambition by our suffrage. The value of experience is recognized by the law and by the people. Judge Miller has demonstrated his ability and fitness for the office which he is now holding as Justice of the Peace of Burbank Township, by establishing a high record of thorough, conscientious attention to the duties of the office. Therefore, in his campaign for return to office, he is logically entitled to and will highly appreciate the hearty support and encouragement, and the votes of all Electors who are in favor of retention in public office of those officials who have proven their fitness and ability. One good term deserves another.

HAD HIS MEASURE

A rather jovial person sauntered into an Irishman's butcher shop and smiled to himself as he thought how he was going to have a little joke at the butchers expense.

When his turn came, he said:

"Pat, can you supply me with a yard of pork?"

Pat turned to an assistant and without batting an eye, said:

"Give this gentleman three pig's feet and hurry up about it."—Ex.

"Do you take exercise regularly?"

"Yes,, replied Mr. Chuggins. "I crank the old flivver three or four times daily and repair a tire at least twice a week."

GIRLS' CANTEEN IN OLD SALOON

By Miss Irene McIntyre, Salvation Army "Doughgirl" in France
(Written for the United Press)

WITH THE AMERICAN TROOPS AT THE FRONT, Aug. 1. (By Mail.)—We doughgirls get sudden orders for movement, too, sometimes, much the same as the doughboys do. Our most sudden one came a few days ago—or rather it was night. Most of the army movements are at night, and ours was a midnight one.

Gladys and I had finished a long day's work and were tired after making an unusually large batch of doughnuts. So we turned in early, for the front. Early is about eleven o'clock.

We had no more than fallen asleep when our commanding officer arrived with several other Salvation Army workers. When we had awakened enough to dress and see him, the officer informed us we would go in half an hour, and that the new arrivals would take our canteen over.

We hustled to get our affairs together, throwing them into our trunks. Then Gladys grabbed her dog and I caught my pet fox who was out in the bushes, and we were off. We rode almost all night, and about daylight came to the Salvation Army headquarters, where we rested for a while.

By noon we were off again, bound for a new sector which had never had a Salvation Army hut. It was more than 100 miles down the line from headquarters. We rode in a Ford which was used for carrying supplies to the canteens. Seats were put in the box for us.

By night we had not arrived at our destination, and to avoid arriving at the front too late to be able to get a place for that night we stopped in a small French town. It took a lot of skirmishing around to find hotel accommodations so near the front, but we finally succeeded.

Next morning bright and early, our party arrived in the new home, a little town of Lorraine, very near the line, and more than half in ruins as the result of the boches' work when they invaded this area in 1914 and 1915. Our place was a store room, and the sign over it read "Modern Bar." So we made our canteen out of the bar room.

We were in a new party of eight who were opening huts in this new hilly sector of Lorraine. We had not been at the "Modern Bar" long when our commanding officer assigned us to a little village nearer the front, where we had to begin a new hut.

We went out to pick out a house among those in ruins for a new home. Most all of the houses were battered and many had holes in them. We finally chose one which had not been used since the war started, except for a stable. It had a big loft and the roof leaked. It was terribly dirty.

But we saw fine possibilities in it for a doughnut kitchen, a canteen for the boys and a place for them to read. We put in a bid for it with the town major, and he soon informed us he had leased it from the original owner for 99 years, for a pocket full of francs. He refused to take our money to pay the lease, saying the boys had heard of our coming, had taken up a collection to pay for it. We suspect he had a lot to do with it.

Next day we came back, and the officers assigned us details to clean up the place. It was a big job to undertake, but the boys went to work, and the place soon began to look respectable. Some whitewash and curtains, and lots of scrubbing added to its appearance.

We are glad to have the new place open and running now, and we take a lot of pride in having made it ourselves, or rather having directed the work that made it. You have a sort of pioneer's feeling after you create a workshop for doughnut making out of an old Lorraine ruin.

FRENCH TOTS GIVE FLOWERS TO YANKS

By Miss Irene McIntyre, Salvation Army Doughgirl in France
(Written for the United Press)

WITH THE AMERICAN BOYS AT THE FRONT, July 31. (By Mail.)—We had a new kind of July Fourth this year, out here on the front in Lorraine. It was almost as safe, and surely as sane, as any we have ever had, yet we'll not forget it. I'll tell what happened.

We looked forward to almost nothing for the Fourth, for we were to move to our new quarters the day following. Consequently, our primary concern was getting the supplies ready that we needed in fixing up the hut. That took all morning, and the Fourth was much the same as any other, except for the French flags that were everywhere with the Stars and Stripes. The natives everywhere put up every flag they could lay hands on.

At noon we were told to be ready in an hour to go out and see the new quarters. We were rushed toward the front behind camouflaged roads in a fast military automobile, and as we turned into the town where we were to stay, we bumped square into a Fourth of July celebration. We stopped, to join in.

On one side of a road through the center of our town the boys had built a small bandstand. It was draped in flags, very prettily arranged. Here were assembled an American general, several French officers, and some more American officers of high rank.

Opposite them were assembled as many doughboys and French troops as could be spared from the lines. They were massed, and were listening to the band play French and American patriotic songs. The boys seemed to enjoy it, for they were smiling and keeping time to the music.

Then our general got up to speak. We thought it very appropriate when he began his speech in French, though he was not very fluent with it. He did his best, and assured the Frenchmen we had come to help them for the very same reason that we revered our Independence Day. They were pleased that he should attempt to speak in French.

Then the general spoke in English to the Americans present, and recalled our motives in the war, our fight for Liberty as he called it. The Americans were much impressed. Then the band played more patriotic pieces, and everybody thought the program was over, even the General.

But he, like the rest of us, was wrong. As soon as the band finished a string of tiny French tots, little girls, all dressed in their Sunday bests, came up on the platform, laden down with flowers. The first little girl presented her bouquet to the General, who lifted her gently up and kissed her on the cheek.

Then the next tot presented her flowers to another officer, who did likewise. All the babes presented their flowers, and went down the steps as pleased as could be. The Americans were delighted with the unexpected turn to the program.

The townspeople had decided to show their appreciation to the Americans in some way, and chose this appropriate plan. The scene was made doubly charming by the booming of the guns, not in the distance, but comparatively close to the scene where the exercises took place.

The fireworks were the real thing where we celebrated this year, and they meant more than noise or lights. It was a memorable Fourth for us, and one we will not forget.

FRANCIS TRUTH, THE MASTER MIND, COMES TO GLENDALE

Scientists and investigators of all sorts have for years tried to ascertain how the noted healer was able to cure the cripple on one of Boston's crowded streets without any visible means so that the boy of twelve threw away his crutches and walked away unaided.

Some said it was done through the healer understanding the use of his mind over matter; some said it must be a divine gift, therefore it was divine healing; then there were others who said: the boy was a cripple, that we know; now he walks; that is enough, and the crowds followed the healer to his home in Boston. He went to Denver. They filled the street in front of the house, many staying all night to be ready for the next day, and so it was in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and even the large cities of Europe were no exception.

Mr. Truth comes to Glendale every week to treat privately. He does not have offices for he could not be there, as his time is devoted to the alleviating of suffering, and his time is never his own.
